A Single Website Was The #1 Referral Source For 36+ Nudify Sites — Several Now Under Investigation

Pemberton Data Follow 3 min read · 2 hours ago

SimilarWeb and Wayback evidence on theporndude.com's referral traffic to nudify sites, and the listings it has since removed.

THE CORE FACT

Per public SimilarWeb data (Mar–May 2026, worldwide), theporndude.com is the #1 referral source for at least thirty-six undress-AI / "nudify" sites, several of which are now under investigation — including Undress.cc, fined by Ofcom and a named defendant in the San Francisco suit, and DeepSwap, at the centre of the CNBC-documented Minnesota case. For many of these sites it is the largest source of referral traffic by far; for some, the only one.

Per-site breakdown: theporndude.com's share of each site's referral traffic

Each row is a separate SimilarWeb referral report (Mar–May 2026, worldwide) on which theporndude.com ranks as the #1 referring domain. Percentage = theporndude.com's share of that site's total referral traffic. Sorted high to low.

theporndude.com's listings removed theporndude.com — the documented #1 referral source for these sites per SimilarWeb data — has removed the listings. Both the earlier state (verticals live) and the current state (listings gone) are preserved on the Wayback Machine.

The evidence: before vs. after

Earlier snapshot — verticals live

The "Undress AI Sites" vertical was fully populated ("we all 97 sites"): NudeMaker, UndressZone, AIPose AI, UndressHerApp, UndressWith AI, KissVid, Nudeo AI, FastUndress, VibeNude and more.

Homepage with the undress vertical live and populated.

The "Undress AI Sites" column — dozens of numbered listings.

Recent snapshot — gone

An in-page search for "undress" returns Not found — the term no longer appears anywhere on the page. The verticals have been removed.

Same page, later capture: searching "undress" returns Not found.

Both states are preserved on the Internet Archive's Wayback Machine and independently verifiable.
